

A new academic building has been opened at Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent.

On March 16, 2021, the opening ceremony of a new modern innovative building of Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent was held.

Deputy Prime Minister for Social Development Musaev Bekhzod Anvarovich and Minister of Higher and Secondary Special Education Toshkulov Abdukodir Khamidovich made an official speech at the opening ceremony and congratulated students and the staff on the opening of the new building.

"I am glad to take part in the opening of the new building of Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent, which for 12 years has been continuously serving excellently in the development of various sectors of the country's economy, of our automotive industry, in the training of highly qualified specialists for them, and which is also an example in the implementation a new system of credit modules in training and on an ongoing basis has a strong cooperation with the Italian University. First of all, let this building serve students, as well as the professors-teachers who work here, for a productive time-spending, inspiring everyone, let it strengthen their love for knowledge", the Deputy Prime Minister said in his speech.

The Minister of Higher and Secondary Specialized Education added: "Today, when I entered Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent, I was very pleased to see the atmosphere that we admired abroad. This, created atmosphere will be an excellent place that will allow students and staff to forget about personal worries, have a rest, relax, work and create."

During the opening ceremony, all guests were introduced the lecture halls, study room, Akfa Class training and seminar room, computer and materials science laboratories.

