

TTPU participates in “InnoWeek.uz-2022”

As it was previously mentioned, on October 17-21, the Ministry of Innovative Development and the National Office of Innovation are holding the one of the most innovative event of the year – “InnoWeek.uz-2022” Week of Innovative Ideas.

The purpose of the exhibition is to create a reliable platform for local and foreign representatives to display and promote the most advanced innovative technologies, products, projects, prototypes and models for various business lines.

Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent traditionally takes an active part in this week every year. In this event, the university participates with more than 10 projects related to mechanical engineering, information technology, healthcare, and defense. These developments created by students and engineers of the university aroused great interest among the participants of the exhibition.

Want to remind that, "InnoWeek.uz-2022" Week of innovative ideas continues.
