

Japanese professors were awarded the title of “Honorary Professor” of Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent.

Yasushi Niitsu, professor of Japan's Denki University, and Chikahiro Minova, professor of the National Research Institute of Earth Sciences and Natural Disaster Resilience, were awarded the title of “Honorary Professor” of Turin Polytechnic University in Tashkent.

Professor Chikahiro Minova is famous for his scientific work on “Analysis and strengthening of seismic independence of buildings”. Minova Chikahiro headed many years of scientific projects, such as learning the experience of Japanese people on the construction of seismic priority buildings, establishing the activity of laboratories organized in the institute.

